

Hello Everyone!

Hope your first week of Summer term has been a good one!

I am sorry there were a few glitches last week with Mathletics. It seems that there was a lot of children trying to get on it and it stopped working properly. I hope that this week it is back to normal. I am going to unallocate all previous activities to see if this helps. I would advise that you try and stick to the allocated work and don't stray too far doing extra activities (apart from live Mathletics.) That way you won't have to redo anything which is allocated again after you've done it. There are details of some extra maths you could do below. Numbots, which is attached to Timetable Rockstars, is free at the moment if you wanted to try that with your TTRS login.

Keep going with your Spelling Shed. I can see that over half of you are practising your spellings on there regularly - well done! Congratulations to Emma who was our top speller last week.

You have sent me some lovely photographs of activities (and baking) you are doing at home. It is lovely to see what you are up to.

As always, if you have any problems, questions or need help, then (with permission from an adult!) send school an email and I will do what I can to help you. If you do not have work allocated or I have made a mistake with something - which is more than possible(!) - then also let me know

There is going to be a Teacher Takeover on the Facebook page for me on Wednesday. I will be posting about what I am doing and I would love you to comment and post some pictures of what life looks like for you all at the moment.

Missing you all ☺ Stay safe everybody.
